EARL ESTATE IS SOLD FOR ONE MILLION

La Canada Added to New Canyon Tract Subdivision

TO BE CUT UP NOW

Purchasers Plan Homesite Development in Former Park

The sale of the E. T. Earl estate at La Canada, one of the finest suburban holdings in the vicinity of Los Angeles, to the firm of Dillon, Patterson & Downs was announced recently by Mr. Downs. The property, located about a mile north of La Canada, was purchased, according to Mr. Downs, for a consideration of approximately $1,000,000. It comprises several hundred acres of foothill lands, a large portion of which was developed by the late Mr. Earl, who planned to convert the property into an exclusive residential park.

About 200 acres of the property have already been platted and improved. The streets are paved, and the trees planted a number of years ago, have attained a good growth. The new owners plan to place about 300 acres of the improved portion on the market within the next two or three weeks, the remainder to follow immediately upon the sale of the first unit. The landscaping was done under the supervision of Howard & Smith of Los Angeles.

Electricity is already installed, and sufficient water for the entire property was developed by Mr. Earl. The new owners will immediately install mains for sewer and gas.

It is intended to develop the property as suburban estates, ranging in size from one to five acres each. The Earl home was not involved in the transfer, this portion of the estate being retained by Mrs. William Eric Fowler, widow of Mr. Earl.

For $500,000 is to be spent in the development of the property, according to Mr. Downs. The principal canyon, which contains a number of fine waterfalls, will be preserved in its natural state, bridge paths will be built, and the picnic grounds will be beautified.

The sale of the property was handled by Howard & Merwin, realty brokers, assisted by T. P. Cullen, former superintendent of the Salt Lake Railroad. Howard & Merwin will act as principal agents for the tract, to be known as Alta Canada, although agencies will be established in Long Beach, Pasadena and other communities of Southern California.

The new owners, Dillon, Patterson & Downs, have been engaged in a general contracting business here for a number of years. The firm has specialized in railroad construction and in state and county highway work. Mr. Dillon, the senior member, has been in business here for about 35 years. Mr. Patterson has been located here for the past 12 years, coming here from the Northwest, where he had large timber and ranching interests.

MRS. FAITH STORY GIVEN GREAT TRIBUTE

Eastern Star Honors High Appointment of Woman

Mrs. Faith Story, who brought credit to herself and to the Burbank chapter of the Eastern Star when she received the appointment to the office of district deputy, Grand Matron, Order of Eastern Star, was honored by the local chapter at a meeting held last night.

Flowers were presented to Mrs. Story and the members paid a great tribute to her accomplishment.

Mrs. Story is a favorite among the women here and her friends rejoice over her success.

DIXON HOME ROBBED

Thirty dollars in bills was stolen Sunday night from the rooms of E. Dixon, 1929 1/2 South San Fernando road, Glendale. The missing money includes two $10 bills and two $5 bills. The matter has been reported to the Glendale police, but up to the present time the money has not been recovered.

BURGLARS LOOT HOME

The home of P. L. Workman, 234 S. Jackson street, Glendale, was burglarized at a late hour Saturday night, and a number of valuables were taken. The local police are now working on this case.

MEANEST BURGLAR IN EAGLE ROCK

Robs Child's Bank of Small
Change in Looting
House

Using a can opener to pry open the baby's bank, was the method employed by a burglar who paid an afternoon call at the home of Dr. D. F. Harden, of 126 N. Paloma Avenue Tuesday, when there was no one on the premises.

In telling of the burglary, Mrs. Harden said she had learned a lesson, and would be certain to see to it that the doors in the future. The burglary occurred when Mrs. Harden had gone to the city shopping, and left her 16 months' old son with Mrs. W. I. Ong, who lives at 150 N. Paloma. Mrs. Ong, who was caring for the child at Mrs. Harden's home, had taken him for a walk, about 2 o'clock.

The neighbors said she had not been gone long, when a man knocked at the back door. Upon gaining no answer, according to their story, he walked in. Later he came out, and inquired of Mrs. J. L. Hodge, of 112 N. Paloma, about some people of a strange name, and failing to learn about them, went on his way.

When Mrs. Ong returned to the house, she discovered that the baby's savings bank had been opened with a can opener and looted, and her own purse had been stolen. Mrs. Harden stated that she didn't know how much was in the child's bank, but it had been given her son when he was born by the Eagle Rock bank. Mrs. Ong could not remember how much had been in the purse, but over $25 altogether.

Mrs. Hodge described the erstwhile burglar as a short stout man, wearing a grey suit, and claimed that she believed she had seen him on the street here.

LITTLE DAILY PRESS CARRIER DIES IN HOSPITAL

Russell Dunn, the 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Dunn of Portland, Ore., who have been living for a few weeks in the Glendale camp ground on San Fernando road, died Saturday noon of appendicitis at the Glendale Research hospital, following an operation which had been performed in the hope that it would save his life. He was a bright, ambitious boy who had recently joined the carrier force of the Glendale Press. He was attending school at the Wilson hospital, allowing an operation to be performed in the hope that it would save his life. He was a bright, ambitious boy who had recently joined the carrier force of the Glendale Press. He was attending school at the Wilson hospital, allowing an operation to be performed in the hope that it would save his life.

His remains will be sent to Portland for burial during the coming week and in the meantime will be at the Scovena parlors where they can be viewed by any of his mates who wish to have a last look at their playmate. No services will be held here, as his parents are leaving for Portland. They will probably return to Glendale later in the winter as they have met with such kindness here they feel attached to the town. Mr. Dunn is a mechanic.

TROOP NO. 2 IS GIVEN BOOK CASE

Boy Scout Troop No. 2 at its meeting last Friday night was presented with a handsome oak bookcase and cabinet for the display of minerals, butterflies, etc., by its distinguished honorary member, Dr. Walter B. Scaife, of Berkeley, Cal., who has watched the development of the troop and always taken the greatest possible interest in its activities. His gift will be placed in the clubhouse of the troop in Verdugo Woodlands.

F. W. SCHUMAN DROWNED

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—F. W. Schuman, former president of the Native Sons of the Golden West, Enrico Allegretti and Albert Martignoni were drowned in San Francisco bay yesterday when a hunting boat capsized.

SWEET POTATOS FOR GIANT IS PRODUCED

Weights Eight Pounds and is Enough for Dozen
Dinners

Sweetpotatolically speaking, Carl W. Schwitters, 525 North Adams street, Glendale, is a wonder. Mr. Schwitters came into the Press office this morning lugging a great big sweet spud, the size of which would have done credit to a pumpkin. It was 12 inches long, 7 inches in diameter and weighed 8 1/2 pounds. The specimen was a dandy and would serve "potato meat" for a 12-party dinner.

This was just one of a crop of sweets that was dug this morning by Mr. Schwitters. Carl owns a piece of land 35x 120 feet at the side of his home. A few weeks ago he planted this patch to sweet potatoes. This morning he reaped the harvest, which consisted of 28 bushels of sweets from this one-eight of an acre of ground, which is not at all bad for Glendale.

The prize winner of the harvest may be seen at the Glendale Press office for the next few days, after which it will be located at the Glendale chamber of commerce.

- (7) No. 27, Tax initiative measure.

FENCING TEAM TO BE FORMED IN GLENDALE

Jack A. Hoefler Seeks to Get Together an Organization

Jack A. Hoefler of 317 East Loma, an old-time fencer and a crack writer, is now working on the formation of a fencing team in Glendale, his idea being to enter the team in an inter-city fencing tournament that will be held in Southern California during the coming winter. He is also working on the organization of a rifle club in Glendale, which, if formed, will be under government supervision. For years Mr. Hoefler has been taking an active part in rifle shooting and has a number of medals for expert work done along that line. He is also an expert fencer. All men in Glendale interested in these lines are requested to get in touch with Mr. Hoefler at once.

Popular Postal Employee Promoted

W. W. Hunt, of the Glendale post-office, is richer by a beautiful gold handed pocketknife inscribed "N. A. L. C. 1923," which signifies National Association of Letter Carriers No. 1923, a Glendale organization. Mr. Hunt was recently promoted to be foreman of the work-room and his fellow members in the association gave him a surprise party Thursday evening in celebration of the event. The wives and families were present to the number of about 35, and the presentation was made by President Harry Frazer. There were vocal solos by Mr. Wright, Mr. Clark and by Mr. and Mrs. Clark, and a general jolly good time, followed by the serving of refreshments, which the guests had brought with them.

$4,800 IS SOUGHT FOR THE Y. M. C. A.

Luncheon at Central Christian Church Puts Workers in Trim

GEO. GLEASON TALKS

Glendale Association Plant
Urged by Pomona
Secretary

The luncheon for Y. M. C. A. workers served Sunday noon in the banquet room of the Central Christian church by a committee of ladies headed by Mrs. O. L. Kilborn, proved to be a delicious and heartening dinner which put the guests in good-trim for the activities of the afternoon in securing subscriptions for the $4800 budget.

There were two long tables, at one of which were seated the "Go Getters," at the other the "Live Wires." Across one end, at the head table, covers were laid for the leaders, with David Black, the general chairman, presiding.

After all had joined in singing the Doxology, a blessing was invoked by Rev. Clifford Cole, pastor of the church.

Secretary Rex Kelley responded to call and made a few remarks. He dwelt upon the personal responsibility of leaders and complimented very highly the program of service that is carried out in the Glendale district. He cited local examples of boys who had been helped and whose ways of life had been altered by contact with the Y. M. C. A.

A. H. Beisner, general secretary at Pomona, gave some good points relative to soliciting, and told of the campaign he had recently conducted in Pomona, where a fine Y. M. C. A. building has been erected. He expressed the opinion that a live community like Glendale should have a $500,000 building to take care of new boys that are coming into the city.

O. E. Andresen sang "Somebody Knows," with Howard Brown at the piano and then the workers were dismissed to cover their districts. Reports will be made at the luncheon to be served today in the same place at 12:15.

MRS. S. C. RAND WINS FASHION CENTER COAT

Surprised by Delivery of New Alaska Seal Wrap
at Her Home

Mrs. S. C. Rand, of 719 South Adams street, is the proud possessor of a new Alaskan seal wrap, won Saturday night at the formal opening of The Fashion Center.

A week ago Sunday night she and Mr. Rand were surprised by the Fashion Center and noticed a clever little house apron in the window. So after taking her little girl to kindergarten on Monday morning, Mrs. Rand walked up to the Fashion Center, purchased the apron and left her name on a slip which was deposited in the box from which the names were drawn.

She had really forgotten about the drawing, when on Saturday night, about 9 o'clock a messenger came to the door and told her she had won the beautiful seal wrap. Mrs. Rand and her husband immediately went up to the store and received the prize.

There were three names drawn and Mrs. Rand's was the first. It was the plan of the Fashion Center, that if the person whose name was drawn first could not be located within three days after the drawing, the second name should receive the prize. Mrs. James A. Belyas was the second name drawn. The Fashion Center played fair. Mrs. Rand suggested that after this, other Glendale people should look in the windows on Sunday night, and perhaps they will be as lucky as she was.

Y. L. I. POSTPONE DATE

The Y. L. I. card party which was to have been given this Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Frank Clark, 906 North Orange street, has been postponed until the following Thursday night, November 9.

BUSINESS WOMEN PLAN TURKEY DINNER

To Be Held Thursday Evening at Banquet Hall of C. of C.

An elaborate turkey banquet will be given Thursday evening by members of the Glendale Business and Professional Women's club in honor of officers and delegates to the Los Angeles county Federation of Women's clubs. In the banquet hall of the chamber of commerce.

The attorney, Mrs. Kemper Campbell of this city will be the chief after dinner speaker for Glendale, her theme being finding the right vocation.

Mrs. Virginia Freeman will sing, and there will be talks by representatives of the county organization, including one by Miss Housam on vocational training and placement and the co-operation of the federation with the local clubs.

It will be a fine opportunity to see a representative group of business women and the local organization is expecting an attendance of 200.

Dr. Laura Brown, president of the Glendale club will direct the affair and will be assisted by groups who will give the yells of their business establishments and otherwise promote the social hilarity of the occasion.

MONARCH GREET 1000 FRIENDS IN NEW BLOCK

Spick and Span Building
Draws Huge Crowds
of Glendadians

The Monarch Auto Supply company and the Monarch block merchants had an opportunity to realize how many friends it has when 1000 to 1500 people responded to the invitation to attend its opening and reception Saturday evening.

They began to arrive before 7 o'clock and came and went throughout the evening, inspecting the splendid business headquarters of the firm on the first floor, where its great and varied stock is displayed to advantage, and they also climbed the stairs to view the suites of offices on the second floor, which are just being completed.

Many business friends sent handsome baskets of flowers, which gave the Monarch store a most festive reception appearance. For the entertainment of their guests a fine program put on by the K. F. A. C. orchestra, arranged by Tex Rogers, was provided by Monarch company, and punch was served to all corners, the members of the firm and their ladies making delightful hosts.

During the evening Ole Andresen favored the company with a number of pleasing vocal selections, and Postmaster Ripley D. Jackson also did himself proud by his pleasing vocal numbers, both of the singers being accompanied by Mrs. Carson at the piano.

The business firms in this building are the Monarch Auto Supply company, which handles everything in the automobile line, making a specialty of Ford parts; the Fashion Center, where the latest things in the line of wraps, furs, evening gowns, daytime frocks, and corsets are to be found, and the Tregea Art and Gift shop, where a full line of unusually high class gifts of all kinds is maintained. The Greenleaf Drug company, which is to occupy the corner store, will take possession of that room about November 10.

MRS. DORA GIBSON COMPLETES HER STATE WORK

Mrs. Dora Gibson, head of the music department of Glendale High, who was commissioned by the state board of education to prepare a list of musical compositions to be recommended for use in the schools of the state, says the list as compiled from recommendations she has received from teachers in Glendale and elsewhere, is now complete and will soon be forwarded to Sacramento. She is very much pleased with the list, which will cover the first four grades of piano instruction, taking in Liszt, Chopin and Bach numbers for advanced pupils. In her opinion it should be accompanied by a list of standard exercises and the proper development of scales for each grade.

REEVES VISITS OUTPOST

City Manager Reeves and family filled in the week-end with a trip to Teddy's outpost in the Arroyo Seco. Mr. Reeves and "Teddy" are old-time Spanish American war pals.

BILL STROTHER, HUMAN FLY, SEES FILM SELF

Bill Strother, the human spider, and Harold Lloyd, the popular movie star, were in Glendale Saturday night to witness the preview of "Safety Last," in which both men are appearing, and which was shown at the Glendale theater. Strother will be remembered for his feats on the local high school. He was hurt while trying to do a big stunt at Burbank, and for several weeks was confined to a hospital at that place. Before being injured he signed a contract to work with Harold Lloyd, and the preview of his accident, he fulfilled his part of the agreement, with the result that "Safety Last" is now on the screen.

While in Glendale both of these popular men paid their respects to Manager "Bill" Howe of the Glendale theater. Saturday night was the second anniversary of Mr. Howe's operations in Glendale, and he gave to the Saturday night crowd a regular old-time, surprise enough surprise.

Young blood mounts in new Italy

Mussolini Assumes Premiership as Head of Fascisti
Party

OLD IDEAS PASS
Organization Takes Charge of Government Without Traditions

ROME, Oct. 30.—Assumption of the premiership by Benito Mussolini, leader of the fascist, will mark the end of the regime of twenty years of statesmen of the old school and is the advent of young blood in Italian affairs.

For the past twenty years the kingdom of Victor Emmanuel has been governed by men who have practically lost all notions as to the meaning of democracy. Every cabinet made a series of concessions to the radical elements. During the war all sorts of impossible promises, from the free distribution of land to enfranchisement of the illiterate were made to the Italians in the trenches.

Obviously, most of the promises could not be kept which caused general dissatisfaction throughout the country and resulted in many socialist victories at the polls in 1919.

In 1920, the socialists having had their first taste of power, occupied many industrial plants throughout the country.

This marked the turning point in the situation and was the beginning of a reaction on the part of the conservative elements which culminated in the occupation of Rome by the fascisti.

Strictly speaking, the present revolution only means that the old governing classes personified by Giolitti, Orlando and Salandra, which in twenty years created Leviathan bureaucracy and after the war squandered billions by costly concessions, have gone.

It is expected that drastic measures will be taken by Mussolini to balance the national budget and cut out all non-essential expenditures.

Unless all indications fail, the fascist, who are not bound by traditions, obligations or party affiliations, will endeavor to give the country a sane, economic government, including a cabinet of the most able and patriotic elements.

Benito Mussolini, the fascist leader, whom King Victor Emmanuel has asked to become premier, arrived in Rome today for a conference with his majesty. He left the train at 10:15 a. m. A big crowd was on hand to greet the chief of the "black shirts," who overthrew the Facta government and virtually forced the king to recognize him as the political leader of the nation.

Mussolini hurried to the palace, where he was received by the king at 11:15. He conferred with regard to the personnel of the cabinet which Mussolini is organizing.

Back of Mussolini's demand was his army of 300,000 adherents ready to act if the government was not handed over peacefully.

The fascist will rule Italy without the consent of parliament, the majority of whose members are socialists and bitterly opposed to the strong monarchistic tendencies of Mussolini. It is believed that parliament will be dissolved on November 7, when it convenes and that Mussolini will appeal to the country for support.

The fort overlooking Rome, which has been seized by the nationalists, was turned over to the military after Mussolini had been invited to become premier.

MOTORCYCLE POLICEMAN IS INJURED

Chasing a Speeder, He is Obstructed by Car and Forced to Curb

MORE SUNDAY TROUBLE

Driver Found Drunk at Wheel Is Arrested
by the Police

Motorcycle Officer Collins of Glendale, was injured at 11:30 o'clock Sunday morning while he was attempting to catch a motorist who had violated the speed laws of Glendale. Collins "picked up" the speeder on Broadway, near Adams and immediately gave chase. As he neared the corner of Adams and Broadway his progress was interfered with by a car driven by Mrs. K. C. Groves, of 513 West Vine street. Collins was forced to the side of the road, where his motor struck the curb, throwing the officer to the ground. The injuries of Collins were such as to compel him to go to his home.

The motorcycle driven by Collins was damaged and was taken to a local garage for repairs.

F. A. Richardson, 131 North Louise street, while driving an automobile in an alleged intoxicated condition, ran down Robert Mitchell of 1034 Porter street, San Fernando, the accident taking place at 10:10 o'clock Sunday night on one of the streets of Glendale. Immediately after the accident Richardson was arrested and taken to the Glendale police station, where he was examined by Dr. Baker of the Glendale sanitarium staff, who, it is claimed, decided that he was intoxicated.

Richardson was placed in jail No. 1, and a charge of reckless driving was placed against him.

Mr. Mitchell was slightly injured in the accident, but after first aid had been administered, he was able to proceed to his home.

Four automobile accidents occurred in Glendale Sunday, furnishing a little excitement to an otherwise quiet day. Harlow W. Beach, 216 East Loma, and S. L. Foss of Los Angeles, were operating machines that collided on the bridge which crosses the Los Angeles river at Los Feliz road. The accident occurred at 3:30 o'clock and no one was injured.

Autos driven by B. J. Garrett, 711 East Orange Grove avenue, and G. H. Orum of Van Nuys collided on San Fernando road at 5:30 o'clock last night. The damage was slight.

R. C. Talbot, 450 West Harvard street, was driving a machine that collided with an auto driven by George R. Roberts of Los Angeles, the accident occurring at 2:30 o'clock at the intersection of Los Feliz and San Fernando roads. No one was injured and little damage was done.

A car driven by Mrs. Minnie S. Custer of 452 West Dryden and an auto piloted by a person whose name could not be learned, collided together on Kenneth road at 12:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon. No one was injured.

NATE DRISTLE IS TAKING POOL HONORS

E. Dristle and Southwell
Have Each Lost One
Game

Nate Dristle of Glendale has won three straight games in the pool tournament being held at Woodward's Billiard Room in Burbank, and is reasonably certain of winning the tournament if he keeps his form.

E. Dristle, his brother, and Southwell have each lost one game. At the games held Thursday night, Dristle defeated Pirson of Burbank, by ten points.

Last night E. Dristle played Wedgewood of Burbank. They contested Tuesday night and Wedgewood won, but on account of a misunderstanding of rules which gave Wedgewood an advantage of 14 balls. Wedgewood asked that the game be repeated. Nate Dristle and Southwell, both of Glendale, also played last night.

The games will be continued in Woodward's Billiard Room every night except Saturday, until November 10th. Everyone is invited to see the games, and no admission is being charged.

WATER CHIEF ABSENT

P. Dederich, manager of the public service department of the city of Glendale, is now in Oakland, where he is attending the state convention of water works managers. He expects to return to this city on Tuesday.

Truths in Epigram

I judge people by what they might be—not are, or will be.—Robert Browning, 1812-1890.

My life is like a stroll upon the beach, as near the ocean's edge as I can go.—Henry David Thoreau, 1817-1862.

The traitor to Humanity is the traitor most accursed.—James Russell Lowell, 1819-1891.

MOTHER OF MANY SONS

Recently a French woman received a decoration from the government because of her abundant motherhood. She had borne fifteen children, fourteen of whom had become farmers. In view of the falling birthrate in France it is likely that this woman must be regarded, if not absolutely unique, at least a valuable and remarkable asset. But an American woman living in Indiana seems likely to beat the record. The woman in question is only thirty years old, a year younger than her husband. She has thirteen sons. The fact came to light when the pair went traveling, and introduced the entire brood to an astonished conductor. He had supposed himself to have encountered a Sunday school bous for a picnic. As a precaution the parents had brought the family record along. It showed that the oldest children were 4½ years of age. There had been two other sets of triplets, and two pairs of twins. All are well, a husky lot of young Americans.

In this country mothers are honored, as a rule, but they are not officially decorated. This mother must have a brave soul and wonderful powers of endurance. She and her husband have undertaken a large contract, but they do not seem to fret about it. The couple who think themselves having a hard time, in supporting one or two babies ought to contemplate the Indiana flock, thank fortune for an easy task, and refrain from repining.

INVITED TO CONFER

An invitation for the United States to confer with England and France concerning the Near East question is expected, or has been received. Whatever may be the view of the administration, it is probable that the American public will favor acceptance. At least such would be the first impulse. Americans are open-minded. If reasons can be adduced showing why this course would not be wise, they are not of the type incapable of being convinced.

There was a time when this country, graciously and in full consonance with the logic of the situation, could have taken an attitude that in all probability would have prevented the turn of events that has startled and alarmed the world. Had the war been pushed to a real and final end, its purpose accomplished in fact rather than in theory, it would have found the United States with two million armed men in Europe. At that critical moment this country was looked to eagerly for leadership. The professed presence of a few thousands of its soldiers, doubtless would have been a potent agency in keeping the Turk out of the bounds from which he had been driven.

While much emphasis has been laid on the policy of isolation, the policy is not to be defended. It is not only selfish, but to maintain it is impossible. When the Turk began to move forward again in the wake of the fleeing Greek, his advance marked by the customary horrors, the wave of indignation that swept the United States was fierce. There even came, from sources quite respectable, a demand for instant declaration of war against Turkey. This showed the insincerity, or the limited endorsement, of the demand for isolation. The idea that the affairs of Europe are none of America's business is offset by circumstantial evidence.

EVIDENCES OF SANITY

Lenina seems to have reversed the financial policy which Russia has for years in a spirit of open defiance, been seeking to foist upon the world. The trade monopoly established by the government, it is said, will be abandoned, and Russia and Siberia again opened to commerce on the terms accepted by the customs of civilized peoples. Bolshevik Moscow has been bitter in denunciation of the American attitude. The United States flatly refused to barter with a government that made a practice of giving concessions to foreign concerns without regard to ownership of the property involved. This policy of confiscation and theft was repugnant no less because adopted on a huge scale. Morally it had no advantages over theft by the individual.

The United States was only one of several governments to take this position. France did not inhibit commercial relations such as private citizens could to engage in, but it did not encourage them. Officially it held aloof, and exhibited as decided a prejudice against soviet methods as was shown in this country. The grotesque effort of Russia to dominate by setting up a new and ruthless system, could not result in anything but failure. The proponents of the system were the last to discern the truth about it. Their eyes seem to have been opened. They are showing signs of a returning sanity.

WORLD BANKRUPTCY

According to Sir George Paish, the statesmen of all countries are making an effort to prevent the nations of the world from paying their obligations. This he regards as equivalent to a move in the direction of world bankruptcy. As the gentleman formerly was adviser to the British treasury, it may be assumed that his opinion on financial matters carries weight. Nevertheless the liberty of conjecturing that his views are too pessimistic may be taken. It is possible that the main premise is wrong. If the statesmen are not engaged as he affirms, then his conclusions fall.

There have been tentative propositions for the effacement of the debt of billions owed by Europe to the United States. In most instances these have come from bankers to whom Europe is under heavy obligation. In no case has the banker suggested that the sum owing him be wiped from the ledger. Therefore the faith from which such suggestions spring, is open to question. The old aphorism that what is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander, seems to fit well into prevailing conditions. The banker does not forgive debts. He could not expect his creditors to adopt such a policy. The United States, considered in some aspects, is a banker.

English statesmen affirm the intent of Great Britain to pay in full. The fact that they advocate payment is a strong indication that they, in turn, will exact payments that may be due from others. A modification of reparation payments is possibly to be considered, but this is no part, from sentiment. Such a course would have to be taken only because of the demonstrated incapacity of Germany. For the world to permit itself to go bankrupt would be an act of immorality, a confession of ineptitude, the admission of sloth. Latent wealth is vast as ever. The land is ready to bring forth, and the mines to yield. Work, devotion to the ways of peace, abandonment of the selfish and hideous policy of war, is the way to salvation.

THE CRIME THEME

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The three most interesting themes in literature are Love, Money and Crime. Of these, crime is, perhaps, in the lead, for the reason that it implies danger, adventure and pursuit, and that the crime story appeals to our strongest instinct, which is curiosity.

Defective stories have always been secretly enjoyed by even the greatest minds. Few tales have ever contributed more to the entertainment of the world than the Sherlock Holmes stories.

This season has witnessed on the stage a number of so-called crook plays. I have witnessed most of them, and am honest enough to say that I swallowed them, every one, with infinite relish.

There was "The Bat," in which the genius of Mary Roberts Rinehart displayed itself to our dazzlement.

Then there was "The Cat and the Canary," spooky enough to satisfy the most exacting. And "Whispering Wires," which kept us all guessing up to the very last line.

And "On the Stairs," wherein Mr. Arnold Daly and his company give us most exquisite creeps. And most blood-curdling of all, "The Monster," wherein no mysterious touch was omitted, and grotesque horror and humor combined to thrill us.

Those who suppose that crook plays and stories conduce to crime are not conversant with psychology. Such things are the most childlike of our amusements. It is well known that children, even the most darling and sweet of them, enjoy the raw head and bloody bone stories.

They are never satisfied unless the hero tops off the head of the giant or the villain, and they scream with delight when they are told about the old ogre devouring people, or muttering, as he smells human flesh:

Fee, fo fi, fum,

I smell the blood of an English man. These stories are not incentives to crime; they are outlets for our submerged criminal instincts, of which the most saintly of us have not a few. In my own opinion, it is better to get rid of them in a good story than it is by robbing a bank. Of course crook plays and mystery stories are not highly intellectual, or filled with uplift. Uplift has its place, but there are times when we want to run around and play, as well as times when we wish to be elevated.

And, after all, the dominating reason why people go to the theater at all is to be entertained. It is to forget. It is to escape from the actual, and dwell for a space in the unreal. Somebody said the difference between white magic and black magic is that people do not believe in the former, and do believe in the latter. You can tell a child any sort of an extravagant story, if he knows you don't mean it. And there is nothing he enjoys so much as to make believe. Let us hope that the realist will never so conquer the theater and the story book that authors will tell us only what is probable, and indulge only in verisimilitude. It is all right for highbrow literature to be realistic, but when it comes to a yarn to be read merely for the pleasure of reading it, why, the wilder the better.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

THE BUSINESS LETTER

A Message from Francis H. Sisson, Vice-President of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, "The cultivation of a convincing style in correspondence is a worthy ideal for every business executive and for those who aspire to be business executives. It has both economic and social value and well deserves the study and consideration that you invite to it," said Mr. Sisson. He continued:

"A business letter is really a substitute for an interview. Within its text the writer makes a request, outlines a proposition, expresses an opinion, or gives information, more briefly, it is true, than he would in conversation, but often more convincingly.

"A letter is effective when it makes an impression on and also influences the person that receives it. A favorable or unfavorable impression is dependent on the character of the stationery, the typing, and on what the letter says and the way it says it. It is, therefore, very important that both the form and substance of business letters be carefully studied. Attractiveness, courteousness, conciseness, straightforwardness, and a phraseology so clear that it cannot possibly be misunderstood are vital attributes of the right kind of business letter. In addition, this kind of letter should be a builder of good will and a fair expression of the character and purpose of the writer, whether it be a corporation or an individual. It should accurately reflect the spirit of its institution or the person that writes it. It should be characterized by brevity, sincerity, and utility. It should be as free as possible of trite phrases and long sentences.

"The cultivation and maintenance of mutually pleasant and profitable human and business relations should always be the end sought."

"Do you not think it is very important," I asked, "that the good business letter be true to fact in every detail?" Mr. Sisson replied: "While every effort should be made to write letters, simple in construction, kindly in tone, and pleasing to the eye, special insistence should be placed upon the necessity of not committing ideas to paper until they have been clearly thought out and adequately supported by the necessary data."

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

We have taken the roll tops off the desk in most instances.

They may be used in some places. But the flat top is the thing now. No cover to pull down and hide the things that ought to be done.

You remember the old roll top, with its pigeon holes. A thousand things looked at, a bit of hesitation, and then tucked away. Like things into catacombs. For that is what pigeon holes are. Catacombs in which we bury things.

There is the thing that comes to the desk and does not demand attention, but should have it.

And then comes the question of decision. Shall we make it and the matter right there?

Or shall we put it away in a pigeon hole? And many times the thing went into a pigeon hole. From which it never came out again.

It was a handy thing to cover up undone things with. The old roll-top. And there are many roll-top minds. Things tucked away that ought to be done. Put into pigeon holes. Never to come out again.

So wise persons took the roll top off the desk.

Either the thing was done. Or it remained on the top of the desk to haunt you.

And rebuke you and compel you to take notice.

Unless you put it in a drawer beneath.

And sometime we shall take the drawers out from beneath the desk.

Then there will be no place to put anything.

Except to leave it out in sight or throw it into the waste basket.

No more hiding places for things that ought to be disposed of.

Like closets of old that were full of clothing and debris and rubbish.

To get rid of anything we threw it into a closet.

And again many of us have closets in the mind.

Where we throw things that we are not quite sure about.

Whether to do them or put them aside.

And the closet seems the convenient place for the lazy mind to hide things.

Until the closets of the mind are bulging out with undone things.

It is a pretty good plan to tear away the roll-top from the mind.

To take out the drawers where we may hide things.

To pull down the closets.

And then to do the things that come to us at the time they come.

Or decide not to do them.

Then the mind will not be full of undone deeds.

Unwritten letters.

Unkept promises.

Or any of the things that go into closets or under roll tops or into drawers.

Songs of the Poets

The Wood-Dove's Note—By Emily Huntington Miller (1833-1913)

Meadows with yellow cowslips all aglow,
Glory of Sunshine on the uplands bare,
And faint and far, with sweet, illusive flow,
The wood-doves plaintive call,
"O where! where! where!"

Straight with old Omar in the almond grove,
From whitening boughs I breathe the odors rare

And here the princess mourning for her love
With sad, unwearied plaint,
"O where! where! where!"

New madrigals in each soft pulsing throat—
New life upleaping to the brooding air—
Still the heart answers to that questing note
"Soul of the vanished years,
"O where! where! where!"

A LOAF OF BREAD A DAY

How large is Canada's wheat crop this year? To the man on the street the fact that Canada has a crop of over 340,000,000 bushels, means little more than a mere jumble of figures. But, if you were to tell him that if Canada's crop of wheat this year was ground into flour and made into bread, there would be enough to supply every man, woman and child in England with a loaf of bread, weighing twenty-four ounces, a day for a whole year, or a similar ration to the entire population of the United States for four months, he would gain a clearer idea of the enormous crop of wheat that Canada has produced. With a minimum wheat yield of 343,000,000-bushels, statistics show that this quantity is equivalent to 20,580,000,000 pounds of wheat, or 10,290,000 tons, or 73,500,000 barrels of flour, which could be made into 12,862,500,000 loaves of bread, weighing 24 ounces each.

Nearly everybody has read of the march of the German soldiers through Brussels, and how it took several hours for the troops to pass a given point. This event was said to be unique in the annals of military history, but can you imagine 7,350 trains running at intervals of five minutes apart, taking 252 days to pass a given point. That is just how long it would take 257,250 forty-ton grain cars loaded to capacity, to move Canada's 1922 wheat crop. Placed end to end, these cars would make a train 1,946 miles long, or one extending from New York to Denver, Colorado. Allowing thirty-five cars to a locomotive, it would require 7,350 to haul 257,250 cars, which would make a total length of cars and locomotives combined of 2,060 miles.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

HYPHENISM IN BOSTON

[Kansas City Star]

The Boston city council, at the instigation of an Irish member, has voted to bar a history of American wars from the public library on the ground that it is "pro-British."

This same Boston councilman recently attacked Webster's Dictionary because in defining the word "constitution" it included unwritten constitutions such as Britain has. The definition, he said, was "pro-British."

Isn't it time for American citizens to check up on such acts and reflect where they lay? The Star is not familiar with the history now attacked, which is by the daughter of an eminent American patriot and historian, John G. Nicolay, one of Lincoln's secretaries. But that makes no difference.

The question is whether the standard of the Boston council is to be applied to public questions in America. For it is the standard of hyphenism, not of Americanism.

A public library is designed for books representing every point of view. There is every reason for such a library to contain critical material on American statesmen and generals. There is every reason for it to contain histories written by Englishmen, by Frenchmen, by Germans, if you please, as well as by Americans. Often a reader gets the greatest stimulus by reading a book with which he disagrees.

This Boston alderman and his associates are looking at questions from the standpoint of Irishmen, not of Americans. What would happen if the Americans of Italian descent should try to censor public libraries from the Italian point of view? Or if Americans of other racial stocks should follow the example of these Boston councilmen?

A fundamental principle is involved here. Is America a nation? Or is it a collection of warring groups of Irish, Germans, Italians, Russians? That is a question that we are all contributing either to settle or to keep open.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

A struggle for the estate of the late Theresa Bell of San Francisco will arouse a curious memory in the minds of many old Californians. There were five children in the family. The supposition was that they were the children of Mrs. Bell, widow of an old mining millionaire. Yet over the household and all connected with it, there brooded a mystery that never yet has been cleared away. Perhaps the fight over the will may have this effect. If so it will gratify an ancient and abiding curiosity.

When the will was read it disclosed the fact that the five expectant heirs had been cut off with $5 each. This was explained, so far as explained at all, by the statement that they were not the children of Mrs. Bell. Naturally there is some interest felt in the question as to whose children they were. Not that it is anybody's business, but that's what people are like. If they were not Bell's it is strange that they should have grown up in the Bell home, innocent of suspicion of being alien there.

In those days the presiding genius of the Bell establishment was a colored woman known as "Mammy Pleasant," but really quite unpleasant. According to some she was of Spanish origin. She seemed not only to rule, but to dominate most emphatically. No reporter ever crossed the threshold and got a chance to see anybody but Mammy Pleasant, and she never told him a thing but goody. After her death, the family dropped mostly out of print, and the secrets that hedged it about had ceased to be discussed. Doubtless the discussion will be renewed in probate court.

A Boston editor says that Los Angeles leads the world in education. This certainly is something to stir the pride of that city, and is mentioned here lest the modesty of Los Angeles cause it to refrain from mentioning the encomium made precious by having Boston as its source. Los Angeles leads in other things, too. In the matter of automobile smashups it is matchless; in murder cases of a spectacular sort equaled by few, and in banditry surpassed by none. Also it beats the world at hustling, and has a way of getting what it goes after.

Bootlegging is getting more expensive, owing largely to the failure of federal judges in this jurisdiction to discern any merit in the traffic. It still is possible to carry a grip full of moonshine, for individuals are caught going it, but the penalty of capture is at least $1000, and the tenuity upwards.

The French carry artillery into the air now, a truly fearful weapon. If the gun jams it may be cast overboard, the effect of the impact very startling to the enemy beneath.

Detroit leads the cities of the country in many lines of manufacture. It is an enterprising place, deserving of the success it has attained. There could be nothing but admiration for a city that had won to fourth place in population in so short a time. There is no occasion to be envious of Detroit, but its career would serve admirably as an example.

The fact was evident to many thoughtful people, prohibitionists or not, that the United States could not completely prohibit on the ships of foreign countries even though they changed to be in American ports. Such ships remain under the jurisdiction of their home government.

The chief justice of the Pennsylvania supreme court desires a seat on the United States supreme bench. Perhaps he seeks a place in which he will feel secure. His present term was for only twenty-five years, and is about half expired. Naturally he is looking for a spot favorable to lighting softly.

It is deeply to be deplored that so much space in newspapers is given to the accounts of murders and other repellent crimes. The folk that flock to sensational trials are a disgusting lot. They should be ashamed of themselves, but lack capacity for shame. They have forgotten how to blush. Presumably the slush written about these trials is for the benefit of the disappointed morons who go to court and found the seats all taken. Of course, the newspapers are blamed for such catering; but the blame does not belong to them wholly.

In a trial for homicide now in progress, the procuring of a jury consumed a goodly amount of time. In another process took but twenty-six minutes. In each instance the time was ample. Needless to say the defendants are neither rich nor pretty.

"Big Tim" Murphy of Chicago has been arrested again, this time on suspicion of stealing much whiskey. Nothing will come of it, of course. Nothing ever does. The fellow is convicted of something occasionally and given a sentence, but the severity of the court never has reached the pitch of causing him to serve the sentence. It is a singular fact that one individual should be a professional criminal, and the mightiest political force of a great city.

This "Bill" chap over on the Los Angeles Express is what is known as a good, sound citizen. Moreover, he is the brother of Bob Davis, who is the big noise of the Munsey publications. Nobody would say a word to hurt Bill's feeling. Therefore the fact that he wrote "Between you and I" the other day shall be passed over.

At an editorial council the use of the preposition "but" happened to be discussed. The line concerning a certain burning deck "whence all but him had fled" was cited. Some declared that the form of pronoun should have been "he," but the majority held otherwise, and the majority was right. Tom Moore mentions a banquet hall deserted, and says "and all but he departed?" What is the difference, if any?

WATCHING THE PARADE

BY JOHN PILGRIM

There seems to be a widely held opinion that I am an old grouch. So I'm going to eat my cake. If I'm a grouch I'll at least have the pleasure of gouching. Mrs. Pilgrim and I had a fuss this morning. She said that May Catherwood is such a dear little girl—

"The very sweetest little wife I know," said Mr. P.

"She is the most selfish, lint-brained little imbecile I ever knew," said I.

May is pretty, shapely, she has plenty of dresses that her father bought for her, and a sufficient amount of thoughtless cackle that young girls accumulate by the rotary process. But she believes that she is the important end of the matrimonial partnership entered into between May and Bill Catherwood, who writes ads. She takes the attitude that Bill ought to be gosh-almighty grateful to her for marrying him.

"We cannot afford to spend that money, honey," said Bill to her gently. May doesn't care who hears her hand Bill an injury, and so I heard the entire quarrel.

"How dare you?" she asked haughtily, like the Kaiserin of the Grand Duchess of Heat or something. "How dare you? What do you mean by speaking to me in that way. I want you to understand that I will not stand it."

You wouldn't think it possible, but that is just precisely what she said. Mind you, she is nineteen years old, she cannot cook, sew, or bake, she will not sweep or make beds, she has very ordinary intelligence and not a particularly good disposition. But she is as pretty as a little red pup. But that is all she has contributed to the partnership. She is just pretty, like a houri in a harem, except that she isn't as square as a shooter as a houri is, from what I've been told about houris.

Poor old Bill used to think he'd round a little dynasty when he married. Instead of which he married into a contract to keep a selfish, idle woman in luxury.

"I'll bet you a new hat against an old-fashioned fried chicken," says I to Mrs. P.

Mrs. Pilgrim said that Bill would not be guilty of such a dishonorable act. But how does she know? And is it so dishonorable?

REV. E. E. FORD TELLS OF ASSETS OR LIABILITIES

"Assets or Liabilities," was the topic of the discourse of Rev. Ernest E. Ford Sunday morning at the First Baptist church of Glendale. He took his subject from the fourth chapter of Acts, 31 and 32 verses, which read as follows: "And when they had prayed the place was shaken and they were filled with the Holy Spirit, after which they spake the word with boldness."

He takes the position that he represents the rank and file of the Unionist party in desiring to cut loose from the Liberals of the present coalition.

FALSE RELIGIONS ARE ARRAIGNED BY REV. EDMONDS

Rev. W. E. Edmond at the Presbyterian church Sunday morning preached about "The False Religions." He said in part: "Paul before his great change was vastly religious but lost. The world is full of religions, but religion don't save everybody. 'Globe-trotters' and men with titles talk about the fine things of the old world heathen religions, but Christ's religion is not one among others; those are bogus; they never can get you anywhere. 'God's religion is the only one. It does not stand for compromise. 'Folks say, 'Confucianism goes back to the time of Job.' If you want the old, go back to God's truth, farther back than that. 'Without compromise we stand on the Gibraltar of God's truth. 'Here are some of the marks: The true religion is of God. Ours is the religion of the Cross, the Tomb, Olivet, Christ's Return. Ours is so narrow—yes, it has to be. The false starts nowhere and lands nowhere. And the religion of Christ never lost a soul. 'This is the only way that answers. What must I do to be saved? The Hindu has no answer on which I can pin my faith; nor the Buddhist; nor the Moslem; nor yet the Confucians. Here are the four leading religions of the world. 'Again, our religion makes nations. Take your map of the world and draw a line around the nations that know Jesus Christ—you have shut inside it truth and virtue, domestic happiness, freedom, all good things. Think of the awful things outside.'"

MY OLD KENTUCKY HOME AT THE GLENDALE

The sun is expected to shine bright today for "My Old Kentucky Home," the long heralded motion picture named after the famous ballad, will open a limited engagement at the Glendale theater. FORD TELLS HOW HE STARTED TO COURT LIZZIE

"I quit my job on August 15, 1899, and went into the automobile business," writes Henry Ford in his remarkable autobiography. "It might be thought something of a step for I had no personal funds. I was not given up—that little coin of mine or mine. In his book which Southern Californians will have a chance to read in the Los Angeles Sunday Times, Mr. Ford asserts that $28,000 was all the money ever put into the capital account of the Ford Motor company, the subsequent growth being financed out of operations. The enormous earnings of the company are shown by the fact that in 1919 Edsel Ford made approximately seventy-five million dollars for 41 per cent of the stock then in the hands of the minority stockholders. Notwithstanding the farore of Mr. Ford's outspoken ideas, critics are united in one respect, that the manufacturer has written a real book. The scope of his subject matter, all of which is bristling with more or less novel theories and ideas, is indicated by some of the chapter titles: "Ford's Rules for Success"; "Do 'No' Need for House Shortage"; "Most Failures Caused by Fear"; "No Glad Hand in My Plants"; "The Secret of Manufacturing."

Mr. Gottschalk has looked over other towns and is convinced that Glendale leads them all for investment.

MILLIONAIRES FORM NEW HOBO COLONY

Boston and New York society folk, with millions in money and eccentric ideas, have formed a hobo colony, under the leadership of John Knowles Bourne, millionaire "farmer," and are now located near Buzzard's Bay. Charles Garland, who refused his father's millions, cast off his wife and took two soulmates, is a member. The hobo colony began in the waffle shop of Mary Whipple in Boston, but when that place was closed by the police they moved to quieter zones. The stated purpose of the "Hobo Corporation" is "to fight unions, protect the elect from the restrictions of the great unwashed and to secure freedom to enjoy the untrammelled luxury of life, liberty and pursuit of happiness." Mrs. Frederick Snow has repeatedly shocked society by her madcap adventures.

DEMAND INCREASE
BRINGS PRICE
DOWN

In discussing the recent drop of $50 on all Ford cars, Edsel Ford said this week:

"The revision in prices," said Mr. Ford, "is the result of the increased volume of business which our company has enjoyed during the present year, and also to the fact that we now own and operate many of our own sources of raw material, which enables us to continue increasing the quality of our product and at the same time keep the price so low that Ford cars are in reach of everybody."

"Our production for 1922 is already in excess of a million, which has been an important factor in bringing down costs. Our present daily output is averaging better than 5000 cars and trucks, which means a complete Ford car or truck every 5 1/2 seconds of each eight-hour working day."

"Locally," according to Jesse E. Smith, Glendale Ford dealer, "this amazing price reduction has resulted in such an influx of orders that we are doing nearly a twenty-four-hour business. If anyone could have questioned the popularity of the Ford car, a visit to our display floor will quickly correct his impression. Here all models are shown, with our sales force in attendance, to explain and demonstrate to large crowds daily."

BRAND HOTEL IS OPENED BY L. A. COMPANY

The Brand hotel, formerly known as White Inn, has been taken over by Borden & Co. of Los Angeles, which concern has fitted the rooms up with the very latest type mahogany furniture, and has added many features that are for the enjoyment and convenience of the patrons of this establishment.

The Borden company is at this time conducting a number of hotels in Los Angeles, where they are making a decided success. In coming to Glendale it feels that there is a real opening for a hotel such as they maintain, particularly for the transient visitors.

Lewie C. Borden is manager of the local hotel. He promises the people of Glendale the highest class hotel service possible at rates that are within the reach of all. Particular attention will be paid to commercial travelers.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

THE WOLF
The wolf howled in the distant wood,
A fierce and savage cry,
I drew the covers up, and glad
The victim was not I.
The wolf howled twice, with scarce a pause,
And louder than before
And stood with red and hungry jaws
Before some cabin door.

The night was cold and wet and dark,
The night the lean wolf cried,
But the lean wolf was far from me,
And I was safe inside.
I threw a log upon the fire,
Then barred my cabin door
For once again the lean wolf cried
And fiercer than before.

The distant wood was far and dark,
The night was black and chill,
It was not mine to brave the night
And set me forth to kill.
I heard an anguished cry of fear,
The lean wolf had his prey,
And blood dripped in the distant wood
Where we went forth to slay.

I heard it in the distant wood,
The lean wolf's savage cry,
And closer yet I barred my door,
And glad it was not I.
And the next night I heard it howl,
And fiercer than before—
God, is there none to help me now,
The wolf is at my door?

'GLENDAL' STAMPED ON MANY FOREIGN MENTALITIES

As indicative of the growth of the translations bureau of the Harrower Laboratory, and the cosmopolitan character of its correspondence, it is interesting to mention that at the present time no less than 82 foreign medical journals periodically reach the department from 17 various countries, comprising eight different languages and embracing most of the European countries, several of the South American republics and other parts of the globe even more distantly removed. This does not, of course, take into consideration a considerable quota of American medical journals which come to the library every week.

Another practical and useful feature of the Translations Bureau is its foreign correspondence division, in which letters are actually dictated and written in the language preferred by the recipient—French, German, Spanish, etc., etc.—the typewriters used being provided with all requisite accents.

All of which is undoubtedly helping to put Glendale on the map, internationally speaking, and bringing this thriving community to the attention of people in distant parts of the world who might otherwise never have heard of it.

Henry Le Grand, agent of the Pacific Electric, and Mrs. Le Grand have returned from a fortnight's trip to visit friends in Bishop, during which they had many fishing excursions and auto trips through the country round about. They found trout abundant in the waters at the head of the aqueduct and got the limit several times.

FALL FESTIVAL FOR BASEBALL TEAM

The first mammoth fall festival of the Glendale Merchants' baseball team will be held next week, from Monday, October 30, until Saturday, November 4, and the corner of Harvard and Orange streets will be the scene of the "fracas." The boys are planning to make this one of the biggest things of its kind held in Glendale in years. They are going to bring to Glendale some of the most wonderful festival features that are on the "boards" today. In other words, they have a treat in store for their many friends in Glendale that will prove to be a genuine surprise.

The festival will be given for the purpose of providing funds with which to equip a new baseball ground. The boys need a new place to play the national game. They are a worthy bunch of good fellows and it is up to the people of Glendale to support them in this effort to give the game in Glendale a boost.

Dr. and Mrs. Chase Hear New Fantasy

Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Chase, of 239 North Orange street, spent a very pleasant evening Friday at the home of Mrs. E. Magnus Ingletton of Los Angeles.

During the evening a new musical fantasy entitled "Aphrodite" written by Mrs. Ingletton, was read by her. It proved to be one of the most beautiful and wonderful themes ever written and will be produced on Christmas day by Walter Hast, a big New York and London producer, at the Philharmonic auditorium in Los Angeles. One of the interesting features of this new play is that it was written by a Los Angeles woman and will be produced in Los Angeles rather than in New York or London, where Mr. Hast is so well known.

CAMPBELL IS BUSY

Arthur Campbell reported that Mr. Gregory, who recently came to Glendale from Los Angeles, and E. W. Coe are among the recent purchasers in the Kenneth Heights tract. Mr. Gregory's lot is on the southwest corner of Hillcrest and Sunset and Mr. Coe's on the southeast corner. Both will improve their properties with fine residences which they will occupy as homes. All the lots in this subdivision are large, the smallest in the tract being 70 by 177, and the building restrictions $7500 and upward.

Comrade Clark Is Back From Des Moines

Comrade C. H. Clark, Past Commander of the N. P. Banks Post, G. A. R., who has been attending the National Encampment of the G. A. R. at Des Moines, Iowa, has returned to Glendale and reports having had an especially fine time. He states that over 10,000 of the old veterans were in attendance and were royally entertained by the people of Des Moines. The big parade was witnessed by more than 150,000 people who gave the "old boys" a most enthusiastic reception, a scene long to be remembered. The next annual encampment will be held in Milwaukee.
